6. Policy Paper - 1993 Convention, Edmonton, AB

Financial Responsibility

In order to achieve the objective of providing the greatest level of service to the membership at the least cost; with the recognition that the Union's staff employees have a right to free collective bargaining; and, that the National Executive must have the freedom to judiciously conduct the affairs of the Union between conventions, the following principles will apply.

(a) Negotiations with Staff

- (i) The National Executive shall strive to negotiate with the bargaining agent(s) representing the employees in a manner which reflects the realities of the wage and benefits packages being negotiated on behalf of the public service employees within the Union.
- (ii) The National Executive will accept the wage and benefit guidelines adopted by the Triennial National Convention as an initial bargaining position to be adopted in negotiations between conventions.

(b) Accounting Practices

The National Executive shall cause the implementation and maintenance of a National HQ Accounting mechanism which will properly identify actual item and programme costs in both the financial reports and budget of the Union commencing as soon as possible after the 1993 Convention. In particular, the following practices should be adopted.

- (i) All travel and travel-related expenses must be clearly identified against a particular programme or Union Action whenever possible. Where it is not possible, the costs should be separated as they are now under the appropriate headings.
- (ii) All programmes and their associated travel, capital, operating and maintenance and other related costs must be maintained as a separate item within the accounting framework.
- (iii) Whenever an over-expenditure of the funds budgeted for a particular item has occurred or is projected to occur, the event and its associated costs should be debated at the semi-annual National Executive meeting and all the principles of the Union's Regulations 0609-02 and 0609-03 shall apply.

(c) National Officers' Salaries and Benefits

The Triennial National Convention Bylaws Committee shall cause a resolution to be brought forward at each Triennial National Convention which reviews the salary structure and salary and benefits of the full-time and paid National Officers of the Union. Moreover, the National Officers whose salary and benefits are subject to such review should ensure that they accept all salary and benefit amounts as they become due in order that the Union's accounting framework is not placed in a position of maintaining a liability on its books for portions of those salary or benefit costs.
